

FOREWORD

In front of you is the fourth volume of RLR collection of papers, this time with a record number of authors from eleven countries in Europe and all over the world. We are doing our best that our efforts become traditional. This is one more chance to read about legal topics from the region and beyond.

This year we have a new partner, the Faculty of Law of the University of Ljubljana in Slovenia. As in the previous years, we tried to encompass most of neighbouring countries from the region. Additionally, we have extended our reach this year to include South Africa, Bangladesh, and Mexico. This expansion was in response to the eagerness of our non-European colleagues to be involved in our venture.

Since the previous conference, RLR collection of papers has been indexed in DOAJ, a widely recognized platform among scientific researchers in our region. Inclusion in DOAJ demonstrates our commitment to the best practices in open access publishing. In the coming years, we hope to include the collection of papers in several other research databases. For the second year, we are partnering with HeinOnline Law Journal Library.

As every year, I would like to express my gratitude to the whole organizing crew for making yet another issue of the collection of papers possible, at the highest standards of editing and publishing. Besides the authors, my gratitude goes to our reviewers, all thirty-five of them, who did exceptional work during the summer months, which is always particularly challenging time of the year to perform tasks of this kind.

Starting from the next year's edition, we will try to focus thematically on several important topics in the current law and practice. Despite many challenges in further development, I hope you will remain loyal contributors and readers in the years to come, all having in mind the joint aim of further improving the quality and visibility of our work.
